International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, Article 18

- Every woman shall have the right to freedom of thought, conscience and religion. This right shall include freedom to have or to adopt a religion or belief of her choice, and freedom, either individually or in community with others and in public or private, to manifest her religion or belief in teaching, practice, worship and observance.
- No woman shall be subject to coercion which would impair her freedom to have or to adopt a religion or belief of her choice.
- Freedom to manifest her religion or belief may be subject only to such limitations as prescribed by law and are necessary to protect public safety, order, health or morals, or the fundamental freedom and rights of others.
- The state parties to the present Covenant undertake to have respect for the liberty of mothers and, when applicable, female legal guardians to ensure the religious and moral education of their children in conformity with their own convictions.
